

Please do not limit the laws that are already in place in Indiana. Since we have been on Indiana's list, we have received far fewer telephone calls late in the evening and early morning on the weekend. As an example, we received many telephone calls from a magazine company where we had a past subscription. Continually, on Saturday and Sunday mornings they phoned. After explaining that they were breaking the law by phoning me continually, the calls ceased and we must have been placed on their do-not-call list. In the past they had promised not to call; however, there they would be again at 8:00 in the morning. I am somewhat handicapped and this service has saved me much unwanted pain. Please do not change our current right of peace in the home.

Thank you.
